COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course will help students analyze why brands are shifting from traditional marketing to content marketing: the new way to create meaningful and lasting customer relationships. To succeed in our hyper-connected digital world, students need to understand what is changing, how to create a content marketing strategy, and how to measure success. The course will focus on the process to design a content marketing strategy that enables brands to engage customers and build authentic connections across multiple channels and touchpoints.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY
I do NOT tolerate cheating. Students are responsible for understanding the RU Academic Integrity Policy (http://academicintegrity.rutgers.edu/)

I will strongly enforce this Policy and pursue all violations. On all examinations and assignments, students must sign the RU Honor Pledge, which states, “On my honor, I have neither received nor given any unauthorized assistance on this examination or assignment.” I will screen all written assignments through SafeAssign or Turnitin, plagiarism detection services that compare the work against a large database of past work. Don’t let cheating destroy your hard-earned opportunity to learn. See business.rutgers.edu/ai for more details.

ASSIGNMENTS (Descriptions)

Discussion Forum

➢ Assignments for weeks when discussions are scheduled.

Pay attention to the dates listed in the syllabus. Below are the specific discussion requirements.

Discussion Forum Requirements

Primary responses (your initial response to the threaded discussion postings) must be at least 200 words. Quality and frequency of response are key. If you are quoting material, you must include the reference source.

Secondary responses (these are your responses to other students’ and the instructor’s postings) and should be at least several sentences in length (a minimum of 100 words, excluding quotes, signature blocks, etc.) and substantial, meaning that your message has value and helps to further the discussion of course content. Good responses include additional ideas and sources, insights or questions about classmates’ comments, connections to the course readings, ways of applying the lessons from the course, etc. Short comments, such as "Good idea" or "I agree," are not substantial on their own.

Some tips for creating substantial participation:

• Explain why you agree or disagree and add some examples.
• You may relate your personal or work experiences to the topic.
• Make connections between the topic and the weekly topics.
• Explain ways the lessons from the class may be applied to your work.

Content Marketing | LinkedIn Learning

The course will leverage the rich series of educational videos from LinkedIn Learning (formerly Lynda.com) a leading educational source with online courses vetted by LinkedIn, and in many cases, by The American Marketing Association. Rutgers students have access to LinkedIn Learning. When LinkedIn Learning courses are assigned, the student will choose from a list of online courses on Content Marketing. Student will be required to write a summary of the course, key learnings (takeaways) and identify some implications for content marketers.

Case | Shaping the Future: The New Social Ecosystem

https://rbr.business.rutgers.edu/article/shaping-future-new-social-ecosystem

Students will be assigned this case for review and analysis.

Case Abstract: The social ecosystem model provides an effective organizational blueprint for social media adoption. Because social media marketing is inherently advocacy-based, it depends on authentic, two-way interactions, peer recommendations, and earned media to succeed. Employees are empowered under a social ecosystem framework to engage across channels as authentic brand ambassadors. This ecosystem has three pillars: (1) the social governance council (SGC), (2) the employee experience (EX), and (3) the customer experience (CX). Through a focus on guidance, listening, and learning by the SGC, employees become the bridge between brand and customer, resulting in improved business outcomes and greater brand value.

Twitter Chat Assignments - [two during the semester]

Two Twitter Chats will be scheduled during the course. To participate, you need to create a Twitter account (unless you have one already). During the weeks that the Twitter Chats are scheduled, each student will complete a minimum of three tweets and two retweets of your classmates’ posts during each Twitter Chat.

The chat will last 30-minutes, and the instructor will ask three questions for students to respond at 10-minute intervals during the chat. Students are expected to tweet their response to each of the questions and to retweet their fellow classmates’ posts.

Assignments 1, 2, and 3
Three assignments to include:

1. Assignment 1: Casper
2. Assignment 2: Adobe Spark
3. Assignment 3: Student Reflection Blog

Exams

Two exams will be given during the course.

Final Project Specs - Content Marketing & Storytelling | Two-Part Final Project [Team Assignment]

Students will select a small to mid-size company to analyze based on these core plan components to result in the creation of a content marketing plan for ________ [insert the brand your team selects here].
