

Lean Six-Sigma Green Belt Technical Certificate

The Lean Six Sigma Green Belt Technical Certificate represents an important addition to the Rutgers Business School degree. Appropriate for students planning a career in any business discipline in which process improvement is valued, this certificate will signify proficiency of key business process improvement topics and skills needed in today's global business environment.

Certification

The Lean Six Sigma Green Belt Technical Certificate will be issued by the Rutgers Center for Supply Chain Management through its Advanced Global Supply Chain Leadership Academy. The Rutgers Center is affiliated with over 20 major, global corporations and has ties to other leading universities (not only in the U.S. but throughout the world) that specialize in procurement and supply chain management.

Exam

To obtain the Lean Six Sigma Green Belt Technical Certificate, students must pass a comprehensive, multiple-choice exam with a grade of 75% or greater. The exam will include important topics covering the six sigma DMAIC (Define-Measure-Analyze-Improve-Control) framework as well as the fundamentals of lean operations and other business improvement techniques. The format of the exam is modeled after industry standards.

Recommended books:

(BOOK-1) Six Sigma: The Breakthrough Management Strategy Revolutionizing the World's Top Corporations (Mikel Harry & Richard Schroeder)

(BOOK-2) The Toyota Way (Jeffrey K. Liker)

(BOOK-3) LEAN THINKING (James P. Womack and Daniel T. Jones)

Eligibility

The best way to become better educated in Lean Six-Sigma is to take the Rutgers Lean Six Sigma class. It is recommended that RBS students successfully complete one of the Lean Six Sigma courses (22:799:676), (29:799:460) or (33:799:460) before taking this exam. However, this is not a prerequisite to taking the exam.
