

RBS STUDY ABROAD EQUIVALENCY GUIDE This

Guide contains courses that have been reviewed by faculty members for equivalency. If a course is marked equivalent, it indicates that the course is transferable if the student receives written approval from the RBS study abroad advisor, who is located in the RBS Undergraduate Office.

The equivalent courses in this Guide are available for students to take abroad as long as their Host University approves them as well as the RBS Study Abroad advisor.

The universities contained in this Guide may offer additional business courses that are not listed here. If you find a business course that is not listed in this Guide, you can submit it for evaluation for equivalency.

To have a course evaluated for equivalency, email a copy of the course syllabus to the relevant department at RBS that offers the course - i.e. accounting course - Accounting Dept., finance course, Finance Dept. Indicate the anticipated RBS equivalent course (course name & number) in the email. Once the syllabus is reviewed for equivalency, provide the Study Abroad Advisor with the evaluation outcome so it can be added to the Equivalency Guide.

If you must take a certain number of business or non-business courses abroad, then work out your academic plan and have the courses approved BEFORE you apply to the host university.

It is the student's responsibility to check the courses in the Guide to confirm they are active and still being offered at the University abroad. Unfortunately, the Undergraduate office cannot monitor changes in course offerings more than once a year.

Students should check for certainty that the courses taken abroad are being offered in the same semester they are attending.

Course Approval forms must be submitted to the study abroad advisor BEFORE a student goes abroad in order to ensure credit transferability.

All prerequisites and requirements must be satisfied at RBS before courses can be approved.

All grades earned at an RU affiliated university abroad will calculate into the student's GPA.

If a student failed a course here, they cannot retake it abroad.

A failing grade in a business course taken at a university abroad that is affiliated with Rutgers-Global- Study Abroad office will not only calculate into your GPA, but will also count toward the RBS Academic Standing Policy. This policy holds for both pre-approved business courses and also in the case where a student goes abroad and does not receive written approval.

Accounting Majors!

Students will not be approved to take Accounting courses, unless these courses are taken at John Cabot University or the American College of Thessaloniki.

Finance Majors!

If you plan on declaring a finance major, you cannot take Intro to Financial Management 33:390:300 abroad. It will not transfer back as 33:390:310.

As of November 30, 2020, the Finance Department will only allow 2 finance courses to be taken abroad.

Marketing Majors!

The Marketing Department will only allow 2 marketing courses to be taken abroad.

In the case of a non-Rutgers Study Abroad program, students must take a leave of absence from RU and re-enroll upon their return to the USA. The student must arrange for the University they attended abroad, to provide RBS with an official transcript.

In the case of a non-Rutgers Study Abroad programs, while credits may transfer, the grades themselves do not. Therefore, grades earned abroad in non-Rutgers Study Abroad programs do not appear on a student's Rutgers transcript, nor are they counted as part of a student's GPA.

* = Indicates Non-Rutgers Study Abroad Program
